

10/12/2003

The finishing pace at the end of a race
Is a testament to what has been wrought.
Be it mountains or hills, valley or thrills;
Experience extends all that was taught.
Either hardships define our limits in time
Or bolster our stride to fruition.
The mountains before can't predict what's in store,
But they've fashioned our life and ambition.

By Jordan Holm

©FreeJordan.org